Strikes-showing that laborers is virtually out of the world. years, deferred payments secured aspire to better their conditionare a good sign. They have often per year; or 25 cents for the camsecured higher wages, or fewer paign (three months,) hours of work. Yet they usually cost more than they come to. While they last, laborers must live on their own savings, or those of their fellows. But these are small amounts compared to the wealth of 25th, all his personal property, concapitalists with whom strikes bring them in collision. When the rooster contends with the horse in treading on toes, the result cannot in field, lot of farming utensils, be doubtful.

No set of workmen are so indisof the American. It is eminently they quit them, are filled by athers or the other sex. Twelve or fif teen thousand London carpenters are now "locked out."

If strikes persist in any unrea onable demand—they may loose imployment altogether by forcing upital to seek new investments where it has no need of them. They will kill the goose that lays their golden eggs. So long as a strike lasts, it stops earnings, but not outays; and thus it leaves the workng class daily poorer.

We regret to part lands of the West as the true way of carrying labor to its best market.

Such an emigration whether from old England or New, or any old State, if one has money enough to make a new start, is twice blessed. It makes laborers scarce, so

The best strike, then, is to strike for a region where good land is cheapest, where inhabitants are fewest, and where railroads outrunning settlement, bring markets nearest.
